

Western Wellness provides yoga, meditation and life coaching

Tranquil environment of the yoga and meditation studio

The glass walls and thin ceiling allowed intrusive noise to impact the comfort of the occupants

Noise from freight trains, trucks and cars directly opposite the studio intruded on the serenity of the space

Western Wellness is a modern and contemporary yoga studio providing a sanctuary of tranquillity, serenity and rejuvenation for yoga practise and meditation. The owners approached us seeking a solution for noise intruding from the floor above as well as noise from the adjoining freeway and freight trains. It was a key consideration that any introduced masking sound would not intrude or distract from the meditative environment.

We supplied transducers and our shelf generator, allowing the instructors and students to teach and practise yoga and meditation without intrusive or distracting noise. When the studio recently expanded, the owners were able to easily add transducers to the existing system.
